

Thought For The Week...

The Tales Of Two Sticks

Conventional wisdom questions how much can be accomplished with little. We tend to believe that a lot more can be done if we have large financial resources, talented manpower, and innovative ideas. But these things don't matter to God. Consider just a couple of examples:

In Judges 3:31, a relatively unknown man named Shamgar delivered Israel from the Philistines single-handedly. How? He won a great victory by killing 600 Philistines with nothing more than an oxgoad (a stick sharpened on one end to drive slow-moving animals).

In Exodus, when God asked Moses to lead the people of Israel out of Egypt, Moses was afraid the people wouldn't listen to him or follow him. So God said, "What is that in your hand?" (4:2). Moses replied, "A rod." God went on to use that rod in Moses' hand to convince the people to follow him, to turn the Nile River into blood, to bring great plagues on Egypt, to part the Red Sea, and to perform miracles in the wilderness.

Moses' rod and Shamgar's oxgoad, when dedicated to God, became mighty tools. This helps us see that God can use what little we have, when surrendered to Him, to do great things. God is not looking for people with great abilities, but for those who are dedicated to following and obeying Him.

If you use what little you may have
To serve the Lord with all your heart
You will find that He can do great things
When you begin to do your part. —Sper
Little is much when God is in it.

Stand Guard

This is the testimony of a friend of mine I would like to share.

Recently, while trying to cut down a tree standing too close to the foundation of our house, the Lord delivered us from a potentially harmful situation. Art was busy cutting with a chain saw and had me pulling on a rope tied to the tree, with the intentions of it falling in that direction. We were singing "Every high thing must come down, every stronghold shall be broken" just singing praises while we worked, then it started falling . . . only it was falling to the right of me- -the direction I intended on running- - and there was a huge trash bin behind me, pinning me in. As I looked up at this massive tree falling, my thoughts instantly flashed to the Sunday morning's lesson ; Sis. Karla Holley's voice "You must guard your heart! STAND GUARD!" My feet didn't budge. WHAM! Then, with my heart pounding, I looked to my left, to my right, front and back, there were limbs all around me, yet not even a twig was touching me! Art's frightened face appeared through the branches as he stated, "You were supposed to MOVE!" JOY flooded through me and I burst out laughing as I replied, "Look! I'm in a hole! I'm not hurt!" I knew only God could have put me in exactly THAT spot and spoke to me to STAND, cause if I had moved even a few inches in either direction, there would have been heavy limbs landing on my head! I give glory to God, and thanks to my Pastor's wife for sharing the message that speaks volume's of influence into our daily lives!
